OVERVIEW

With more than nine years of experience defending national clients, Matt concentrates his practice in the areas of medical malpractice, transportation and catastrophic injury. He has recently expanded his practice to include pharmacy and pharmacist defense. He handles all phases of litigation, including experts and trial.

Matt is one of the firm leaders on forensics and the investigation necessary to successfully defend catastrophic claims leaving no stone unturned. He has been recognized by leading clients of the firm as a legal advocate that aggressively defends their interests rather than simply reacting to allegations.
